

CONFIDENTIALITY, DISCLAIMER & COACHING CLAUSE

All conversations are 100% confidential (unless there are legal reporting requirements such as indications of danger to oneself and/or others, etc.) Professionally and ethically, Human Remedy provides only personal coaching, group facilitation, and management consultation to the best of their knowledge and level of expertise, and defer from giving any suggestions and advice that are beyond the scope of their training and experience.

The co-active model of coaching provides a safe, respectful and honest space for deep reflection, examination and exploration of situations and dynamics presented by clients, and champions the clients' creativity, wisdom and courage to fulfill their stated goals and desired outcomes.

It is hereby understood that co-active coaching is a comprehensive process that may involve exploring all areas of client's life, including work, recreation, finances, health, relationships, and that the client is exclusively responsible for seeking professional psychiatric, medical, legal, financial counsel as deemed needed. It is also understood that Human Remedy does not guarantee successful outcome, and clients are solely responsible for implementing their own action plans and decisions.
